About the Course

This introductory course to multi-sensory storytelling will support you to explore your own imagination and creativity. You will be gently guided through the process of understanding how multi-sensory stories are created, understood, developed and shared in many different ways and for many different reasons. There will be an opportunity to explore the many ways to develop multi-sensory stories both with people with profound and multiple learning disabilities, and for them. You will explore the senses and look at how, through creating and sharing sensory stories together, you can create connections.
